WOODLAWN LOT-OWNERS DECLARE THAT THE DOG MUST GO.

The Mistress of the Dead Terrior Equali: Resolved that Her Pet Shall Remain in Its Present Grave-Prospect for a Brisk Legal Fight Over the Transfer of the

"The dog must go." So says Vice-President Knevals, of the Woodlawn Cemetery Association, referring to the remains of Cosey Bell, the deceased Scotch terrier, which Mrs. Mary A. Bell, of 62 West Thirty-eighth street, had buried on Aug. 15 last in a plot in that cemetery pur chased especially for that purpose.

"There is no alternative," continued the officer, who has just returned to the city from his summer vacation, "for ever since the interment of that animal took place, we have been receiving indignant protests from the lot-owners in the cemetery, who demand that it shall be removed at once. As they represent about six thousand people, it is evident that some

The feeling of repugnance on their part is The feeling of repugnance on their part is a naturat one, and I don't blame them at all "Do you think that any legal obstacle will be placed in the way of such action?"

"I don't think any valid objection can be made to it. Of course we do not enumerate in the deed the different uses to which a lot in the cemetery may not be put by a purchaser, but simply say that it is to be used as a place of burial for the dead. Some things go without saying, and naturally we would not suppose that such a lot would be used for a burial-place for dogs, cats, parrots or canary birds. We would as soon think it necessary to specifically prohibit the owner from erecting a beer saloon on his plot.

consideration must be paid to their wishes.

owner from erecting a beer saloon on his plot.

"Then again, we did not know that the dog was buried there until some time after the interment. It was un lerstood when Mrs. Bell purchased the lot and ordered a grave dug that it was for a child. She was very reticent upon the subject at the time. On the following day, when the undertaker telephoned to our office to inform us of the interment, the clerk replied that he knew all about it and spoke of Mrs. Bell's child.

"But it wasn't a child at all,' yelled back Mr. Winterbottom. 'It was a dog.' Then we were cut off, and the clerk, who did not hear very distinctly, thought he must have misunderstood what was said. He didn't, though, as he soon found out when the lot owners began to get stirred up about the matter"

"Have you seen Mrs. Bell yet?"

"No, and I am afraid it will be pretty hard to see her. If I can I shall try to persuade her to have the dog removed without making any trouble for us. I will also discuss the matter with Mr. William A. Booth, the President of the Cemetery Association; but no action will be taken until a meeting of the directors is held, during the latter part of the week, and we shall then be able to inform the lot-owners that the objectionable body has been removed."

"It is said that the casket and trappings were very expensive?"

were very expensive?"

Nonsense. The accounts were very much exaggerated. Mrs. Bell and the undermuch exaggerated. Mrs. Bell and the undertaker went up in the train to Woodlawn, with the box in which was the body of the dog. It might have cost $10 or 15, but certainly not any more. It was taken over to the lot and burned without any ceremony and there were no mourners, no cortege, and, as far as I know, not a tear was shed. The whole thing is ridiculous, and we will dispose of the matter very quickly when we get at it."

At the house of the late Cosey's mistress the reporter of The Evening World was first informed by a servant that Mrs. Bell was out of town and would not be back for some time. Afterwards he was told that she had out of town and would not be back for some time. Afterwards he was told that she had strict orders not to let in any reporters.

"But how about Scotch Cosey?" she was asked. "They are going to dig her up and bury her in the barnyard."

"Oh, they can't do that. They haven't any right to," was the reply.

"How do you know that?"

"Because I have heard Mrs. Bell say so lots of times. She will not have Cosey's body disturbed."

It was understood from one of Mrs. Bell's acquaintances that she is highly indignant over the attitude which the directors of the Cemetery Association have assumed in the matter, and proposes to fight for the right to bury her Cosey whore she chooses to the bitter end.

She will employ legal counsel in order to establish her claims, and it is rumored that the directors will have to do some pretty lively fighting before they get the right to transplant Cosey's remains to the cemetery

LABOR CALLS IT A SNUB.

YESTERDAY'S NON-APPEARANCE OF FLAGS ON THE CITY HALL.

What Some of the Leaders Say Abou Mayer Hewitt, Whom They Held Responsible for the Omissien-The Mayor Has a Word for Himself-He Says It Was Merely an Oversight on a New Holiday.

The non-appearance of the flags on the City Hall yesterday has created much stir all over the city and is a subject of general comment

Labor men who were interviewed by Evening World reporters expressed very decided views, and most of them held Mayor Hewitt personally responsible for the fact that the flags had not been raised.

John Nolan, of Salesmen's Assembly 8, 302, Knights of Labor, said: "Of course in pursuance of the course adopted by Mayor Hewitt in relation to labor in general nothing other than a snub could be expected by labor men."

Louis P. Delaw, ex-President of Furniture and Carpet Employees' Council No. 3-In my opinion a committee should be appointed to inquire into Mayor Hewitt's sanity. He's gone daft on the question of flags.

Ben Simon, of the Clotning Salesmen' Association-His action did not surprise me. He is no friend of labor, and his enmity to labor men and organizain general has in this instance, as often before, shown itself. One would think, though that on a legal holiday the American flag should be displayed from the City Hall, the City Hall.

Ed Sheehan, of the Stone Cutters—He is too small to say much about. Labor has its remedy at the polls and undoubtedly will exercise it.

Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Labor Union—The omission was noted by the labor men. Mayor Hewitt is no admirer of workingmen, and this he has already made known. It was an insult and will not be forgotten."

Gregory Weinstein, of the Printing Trades' Section—Dyspepsia is one cause. Another is spiece. exercise it Gregory Weinstein, of the Printing Trades' Section — Dyspepsia is one cause. Another is spleen.

Phil Kelly, President of the Theatrical Progressive Union—We expected such treatment at Hewitt's hands.

Grand Marshal Sullivan—I am not surprised at his action. If it was the other way then I would indeed be surprised.

Ed Finklestone, President of the Barbers' Union: The Mayor is foolish if he imagines that organized labor cares for his smiles. Nothing else can be expected from him.

Bob Davis, of the Board of Walking Delegates—The flag? What will I say? Merely that he don't know his own mind and that—well, never mind. You know the labor people's opinion of him.

Mayor Hewitt arrived at the City Hall at 10.30 o'clock this morning. He had spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday at his country residence at Ringwood, N. J.

An Evening World reporter was the first newspaper man to greet His Honor to-day. The Mayor said he was feeling first rate, When he was asked why the flags were not displayed on the City Hall yesterday he sat back in his revolving chair and reptied, in his usual frank and outspoken manner:

"I was out of the city and do not see how Coroner Rooney and Dr. J. M. Van Cott. An Evening Stand College Hospital, followed for the class and do not see how the blame can be placed upon me. The truth is, no one should be held responsible for the failure to hoist the flags on this building yesterday. No one seems to have thaught of Labor Day in conjunction with the hoisting of the flags. I certainly did not think of it and went into the country. If the matter had been suggested to me I should certainly have ordered the flags hoisted. It was an oversight, and do not see how I can be held responsible. If the labor organizations, or any person, had suggested the matter to me the flags would have flown all day yesterday from the top of the City Hall. No sane man would have objected.

"You see Labor Day is a new holiday, and there is nothing strange in forgetting about the City Hall flags in its celebration."

there is nothing strange in forgetting about the City Hall flags in its celebration."

"Are not the flags hoisted on other holidays without the formality of an order?"

"No, sir. The Keeper of the City Hall al-

"No, sir. The Keeper of the City Hall always comes to me a day or two before a national or State holiday and receives an order to display the flags. I gave him an order to display them on the Fourth of July. If he had come to me and spoken to me about Labor Day, I would have given him an order. There is no reason why the flags should not be displayed on Labor Day. I see there is an effort to hold me responsible for the oversight. I do not see why this should be."

DR. HAMMOND'S BODY EXHUMED.

Three Doctors and a Coroner Try to Find Out If the Clergyman Was Polsoned. Official inquiry into the cause of the sudden death of Rev. William Hammond, at his home in Ocean Grove a week ago, was begun in Brooklyn this morning. The doctor's certificate of death set forth that Mr. Hammond had died with paralysis of the heart, but revelations made since his burial in Greenwood Cemetery led to the suspicion that death was caused by poison. Coroner Rooney was detained by a case of sickness so that he did not arrive at his office until 11.15. Meanwhile Deputy Coroner Kelly hunted around for a physician to aid Dr. Brown in making the autopsy, and also procured from the Board of Health an order permitting the party to exhume the body of Mr. Hammond. Soon after Coroner Rooney arrived at his office the Jersey officials started for Greenwood to prepare the body in the reception vault of the cemetery for the examination and to get everything in readiness.

Coroner Rooney and Dr. J. M. Van Cott. of the Long Island College Hospital, followed later.

THE MAYOR WAS FUNNY. But He Grew Serious on the Question of the Hippopotamos Massion. There was some fun at to-day's meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. "Hello, Mr. Acting Mayor," was the way Mayor Hewitt greeted President Forster of the Board of Aldermen, "but you didn't act much." There wasn't anything to do," replied "There wasn't anything to do," replied President Forster.

The Mayor said the point was well taken.
"But you ought to have been here yesterday," continued His Honor, "and ordered the flags hoisted in honor of Labor Day."

"I was away," said Forster,
"So was I," said the Mayor.

To a few minutes a request was read from the Park Department for $7,500 to improve the menagerie building. It included $2,500 for a home for the hippopotamus.

"What," yelled the Mayor, "$2,500 for a hippopotamus that was brought here against its will, while there are thousands of poor people in this city who are living in shan-ties?" The appropriation was voted down.
